Notes for Hubbard Johnson:

from Overton County, Tennessee Genealogical Records, p. 41, by Edythe Rucker Whitley:

Deeds F, Page 219. Indenture 18 December 1827. Jane Webb, John Webb, Thomas Webb, James Webb, Elizabeth Webb, Hubbard Johnson of Overton County, Tenn., and James Hooten, Jesse Brown, and Reuben Mart of Ashe County, North Carolina, of one part to John Johnson of Overton County, Tennessee, for and in consideration $1353, paid by John Johnson conveys 570 acres land on Spring Creek in two tracts Grant No. 384 and 2797. All Sign.

 "June 21st 1862 We the within named and underneath assignors do hereby declare and convey the we are the only lawful heirs of Hubbard Johnson, deceased In Overton County, Tenn. do avow that we have done as near as we could do as he directed us to do with his personal estate and we have divided all the proceeds of the same between us heirs giving each man his proportion of what cash was on hand and an equal share of notes that was on hand and notes that was received for property. We each received in notes besides cash Two hundred and forty nine dollars and twenty one cents. The day and date above written in witness whereof we have assigned our names and affixed our seals. D.C. Johnson (seal), Elijah Johnson (seal), J.W. Johnson (seal), William Danner (seal), David Cooper (seal), Nancy Cooper (seal) (her mark)."

"Green Cemetery:

There are about 25 unknowns buried in this cemetery located on West Tommy Dodson Hwy (Hwy 293) about 3 miles from Hwy 111. It sits atop a hill overlooking Spring Creek (next to the bridge). Hubbard Johnson originally owned the land the cemetery is located on. Some of the graves are "tent" graves, several have coffin shaped sandstone over them. Everyone in this cemetery is supposedly related in some way, except for one child who was the daughter of a servant in the Thomas Green home. This property was originally owned by Hubbard Johnson who passed it down to his son, D.C."

[p.39] PAGAN CREEK MONTHLY MEETING (also called Nansemond and Levy Neck Monthly Meeting)

The lower Virginia counties of Isle of Wight, Nansemond and Norfolk have always attracted dissenters and from early times we find them in this section of our state. Even before the rise of the Society of Friends and its subsequent spreading to America, Puritans were in the Isle of Wight County as well as Nansemond. They came under the leadership of Richard Bennett, whose wealth and influence upheld them, he having transported many across the Atlantic at his own expense. Many of these Puritans occupied positions of highest rank in the Virginia Colony. Bennett himself became governor as we shall presently see. But Puritanism reached its climax in the south in 1657 with the battle of the Severn, which event was perfectly timed to the arrival of the first Quaker missionaries. Thereafter we find many Puritans and their families being converted to the beliefs of George Fox. In fact, John B. Boddie, historian of the Isle of Wight County, concludes that a large majority of the first Quakers of that county and Nansemond were originally Puritans, including the renowned Major General Richard Bennett, Governor of Virginia under Oliver Cromwell. Among these earliest Quaker families, not all of whom had been Puritans, are found the names of Godwin, Bennett, Hutchins, Jordan, Draper, Copeland, Denson, Johnson, Jones, Murrey, Bressie, Chapman, Boddy (or Boddie) Outland, Howard, Wiggs, Exum, Barnes, West, Lawrence, Tooke, Taberer, Newman, Bufkin (or Buskin), Perkins, Garret, Belson, Grove, Pope, Lacie and others too numerous to mention. It should, however, be remembered that Quakerism was a new faith and that often only one or two members of a family were converted, while in the established Church all members could be taken for granted as being members, unless shown to be otherwise.

Edmundson mentions having stayed "at the House of Justice Taberner (Taberer) whose wife was loving to the Quakers"; Taberer was justice of Isle of Wight County. Edmundson's most distinguished convert was the great Major General Bennett, the first Governor of Virginia to be sent out by Oliver Cromwell. Edmundson said of him, "He was a brave, solid, wise man, received the truth and died in the same". The truth of this statement is proven by Bennett's will, recorded in Nansemond in 1674, in which he remembers his Quaker friends most liberally. He left 2000 pounds of tobacco to "the wife of Thomas Taberer", another 2000 to William Yarret, still another to Elizabeth Outland and still another to Thomas Jordan of Chuckatuck.

Notes for John Nicholas Copeland:

from Encyclopedia of American Quaker Genealogy: Virginia

[p.21] CHUCKATUCK MONTHLY MEETING (also called Nansemond Monthly Meeting)

In the latter part of 1658 John Copeland was in England and in 1661 we hear of his presence in London and in 1667 he was married, for the first time. The record of his marriage describes him as being from "Lockington, North Cave, in the county of York. He married again in 1677 (presumably in England) after the death of his first wife in 1675. Ten years later (1687) he is again in America, as a letter to George Fox mentions that he is in Virginia. His signature appears many times in the Chuckatuck record between 1679-96. In 1691 he entered for the third time into the state of matrimony and, as has been seen, Story lodged in his house at Chuckatuck in 1698. His residence seems to have been a frequent meeting place for the Friends of the Chuckatuck area. Bowden gives the date of his death as the ninth of the first month 1718 and says he was buried at North Cave, England. In connection with John Copeland a news item of June 1940 becomes most interesting: "Jamestown, Virginia - Possibly the oldest example of American pewter in existence was excavated recently during archeological work at Jamestown Island ... It consists of the fragment of a spoon 'by Joseph Copeland'. It is dated 'Chuckatuck 1675'". This Joseph Copeland was probably a relative of John Copeland, according to Boddie the Isle of Wight historian, and inherited the estate of Major Taberer of that County. It should be possible to show that all the Copelands of Virginia Quaker tradition are descendants or relatives of this most unusual man - John Copeland.
